

Month year

Dear Friends,

As we report on the month that has passed, we are grateful for every day we're able to be here in Thailand, and want to say thank you, churches, for your faithful support and for your prayers on our behalf. We recently saw God answer a prayer in the life of Kaning! Three or four months ago, we mentioned her in a prayer letter, and the week immediately following, she began coming to services. It was an amazing testament to your prayers. Alisa talked to her about the Lord, and she made a profession of her faith, and said she wanted to be baptized. We thank God for this victory! Justin, our oldest, also has been asking about how to be a Christian himself for a long time, and after some sweet conversations with him, he was very excited to be baptized along with Kaning.

God has recently blessed our church with great Sundays. Our room where we gather has been almost too full for anyone else. Although our church is still small, we want to find a place where we can grow, and are asking God for the perfect place to rent.

We had our group of English students over to our home this month, and have recently met several new people with whom we're in the process of sharing the gospel. Their names are listed below. We'd be honored if you'd ask God to open their hearts!

Please pray:

*For J, a young man that I'm spending time with several times through the week. We meet so I can teach him English, but conversations have often gone toward the gospel and more.

*For Andy, who had a long discussion with me this week asking why we can't worship Jesus and believe the other gods are real too.

*For Mark, a new student who hasn't heard the gospel yet, but is a student God's given us a special burden for.

*For Wong, a sound producer who we've shared the gospel with and who whose heart we're asking God to open.

*For Um and Yok, college students who have expressed their interest in the Lord, but have yet to accept Christ for themselves.

*For Rada, a nurse who has read the gospel of John and Romans, visited church, but feels great pressure from family to not turn away from Buddhism.

As we daily seek to spread the gospel in our city, please pray for God's favor, and that God would direct our steps to people who would have open hearts. Pray for our boldness and that the Holy Spirit's power would be free to work through us and His Word.

Thank you for your prayers. May God bless you as you serve Jesus in your city this month!
